

Guide to your Statement of Account:

Unit Rated schemes

If you've not seen a group insurance scheme statement of account from Canada Life before, this guide will help to explain the different sections on a statement of account, and what they mean.

There are two types of account – Unit Rated and Single Premium costed. This particular guide has been produced to explain a Unit Rated scheme account – this is how a scheme is usually costed if it has 20 or more members.

19 STATUS

'Credit' rows appear where underwriting was required for a member during the previously costed period, and so the cost of cover for the member has been recalculated mid-term.

Where no figure is stated for 'days on risk' this will be 365 days (366 for a leap year).

This example shows the charges, credits and adjustments applied for one member whose total benefit was £1,500,000:

The first two rows show the crediting-back of previous charges (£0.00 in this case as the member had simply been charged at the ordinary rate).

Rows 3 and 4 show that for 120 days (the temporary cover period applicable at the time) Canada Life was on risk for £1,250,000 (this was the free cover level so was covered at 'ordinary rates') and also the remaining £250,000 of benefit that was pending an underwriting decision.

Row 5 shows that as no decision had been made at the end of the temporary cover period, the benefit was restricted to the free cover level of £1,250,000 for 29 days whilst underwriting was completed.

Rows 6 and 7 show that the member was accepted with a loading for the remainder of the year. The £250,000 benefit in excess of the free cover limit was loaded at a rate of 0.5956, incurring a charge of £88.12 for the 216 days of the remaining period. This charge is shown under note 12.

Please note that a loaded rate is calculated based on a member's age, gender and occupation. Where different loadings are applied to separate portions of a members benefit, this will be reflected in separate rows.
